This treaty was executed at Whitehall, in the palace, by Barillon d'Amoncourt, for the French, and by Jeffreyes, Rochester, Sunderland, Middleton and Godolphin for the English.

Charlevoix says of it, that it was made by the English "pour endormir les François de l'Amérique." It did not result in the interest of peace, since, in the spring of 1687, the English resumed hostilities.

Renaissance. (Conclusion.)

Part IV. — Biography.

Since the publication of the list on the literary history of the Renaissance, Symonds's work has been completed by the addition of two volumes upon Italian literature, which form volumes four and five of 2722.51.

Gregorovius, F. Lucrezia Borgia. Nach Urkunden und Correspondenzen ihrer eigenen Zeit. Stuttgart, 1874. 2 v. in 1. Plate. Facsimiles. 8°. 2746.20

This work contains many important documents. "The latest and most precise notices on the genealogy of the Borgias." — Villari.

The commonly accepted views of Lucrezia Borgia's character, it is said, are largely derived from Burchard, Guicciardini, Matarazzo, Pontano, and Sannazzaro. The epigrammatic satires of the last two, it is thought, contributed largely to the popular accounts, Guicciardini especially showing their influence. Later historians have modified the harsh views of the earlier biographers. Gilbert [4746.14] and Gregorovius both write from more favorable standpoints; the latter had the use of previously inedited documents, and made extensive researches among the archives of different cities. Gregorovius also treats of the Borgia family in his "Gesch. der Stadt Rom," v. 7 [4214.50], which is reviewed under the title of "The Borgias and their latest historian," in the North British rev., v. 53, p. 35 [5309.1.53]; also in Littell, 4th ser., v. 21, p. 259 [3171.50.21]. For researches in regard to the genealogy of the Borgias, see Cittadella's "Saggio di albero genealogico e di memorie sulla famiglia Borgia." Torino, 1872. [Ordered.]

Greswell, W. P. Memoirs of Politianus, Picus of Mirandula, Sannazarius, Bembus, Fracastorius, Flaminius, and the Amalthei. 2d ed. Manchester, 1805. 8°. 2743.20

For Poliziano see note under Meiners in this list. There is a life of Pico della Mirandola in English by Mrs. Shelley [398.1.1], also a sketch by Pater in his "Studies of the Renaissance" [4079.55; 4077.70]. See also Symonds [2722.51]. Consult the last for Sannazzaro.

Grimm, H. Life of Michael Angelo. Tr. 4th ed. B., 1869. 2 v. Portr. 12°. 8067.12

See also the note in the Boston Public Library History catalogue; and under Buonarroti in this list.

Guarino da Verona, humanist, 1370–1460. See Rosmini, C. de'.

Guidobaldo, I, duca di Urbino, 1472–1508. See Bembo; — Dennistoun.

Heaton, M. M., and Black, C. C. Leonardo da Vinci and his works. Consisting of a life by Mrs. C. W. Heaton, an essay on his literary and scientific works by C. C. Black. L., 1874. Photog. 8°. *4074.51

A popular account; see also Houssaye.

Hettner, H. Italienische Studien. Zur Geschichte der Renaissance. Braunschweig, 1879. 8°. 2723.61

Houssaye, A. Histoire de L. de Vinci. P., 1869. Portr. 8°. 8065.3

Houssaye's life is considered the most complete and satisfactory account; the appendix contains a list of authorities. Mrs. Heaton's [4074.51] life in English also gives authorities. Rio's is a valuable account [4079.11]; see also his "De l'art chrétien" [4075.2]. Clément treats of Da Vinci as an artist, in comparison with Michael Angelo and Raphael. Crowe and Cavalcaselle give a valuable account. See also Campori's "Nouveaux documents" in Gazette des beaux-arts, v. 20 [7310a.50.20]. Landon [8061.8] gives outline illustrations from his paintings. Blanc [8080.15] gives a list of his works, and of authorities. His connection with the Renaissance is considered in Symonds [2722.51.3]; also in Pater [4079.55; 4077.70]. Consult further his treatise on painting [4084.14, English; 4061.1, Italian]. Rigollot [4066.50] contains a list of Da Vinci's works. In regard to his scientific achievements, consult Libri [4275.20.3].

Jansen, A. Leben und Werke des Malers Giovannantonio Bazzi von Vercelli, genannt il Soddoma. Stuttgart, 1870. 8°. 8065.57

There is an account of Bazzi, by Vischer, with illustrations from his works, in Dohme's "Kunst und Künstler des Mittelalters und der Neuzeit," 2te Abth., 1ter B., no. 20 [8072.55]; also in Keane's English transl. of Dohme [8072.60]; an essay by Frizzoni, in the Nuova Antologia, Agosto, 1871 [7260a.1]; an account of his works by Timbal, in Gaz. des beaux-arts, 2e pér., v. 17, pp. 18, 97 [7300a.50.17]; in Krell's "Klassiker der Malerei" [C.B. 13.1] are large heliotypes from his painting. Bruzzi's "Notizie" in the "Miscellanea di storia italiana," v. 1 [4712.1], contain results of investigations regarding the place of his birth, and his family name.

- Passavant's work, which, in the preface, characterizes the authorities, is considered the chief biography of Raphael. Quatremère de Quincy's "Life" is the most valuable of earlier lives [8068.32; 4065.1; 543.12; 835.7]. Rumohr's "Italienische Forschungen," Vol. 3, is devoted to a study of Raphael and his contemporaries [4079.60.3]. Of the works of later date than Passavant's, Springer's "Raffael und Michelangelo" [*4061.39], Müntz's "Raphael" [8072.62; in English [8072.64], are the most important. Sweetser's is a concise popular account [4069.18]. For his relations to the Renaissance, consult Symonds's "Fine arts" [2722.51.3]. For studies of his works, there are Gruyer's "Essai sur les fresques de R. au Vatican" [4066.28], with illustrations; "Les vierges de Raphael" [8065.11]; "Raphael et l'antiquité" [8065.60]; Lloyd's "Christianity in the cartoons" [4066.44]. Springer also contains studies and illustrations, some of them from original drawings. The Tosti collection embraces engravings from the most important of Raphael's paintings, viz., from the frescoes in the Stanza of the Vatican [T. C. 3.4]; the Loggia, containing the "Bible" [T. C. 3.3]; the beautiful crayon studies of the Madonnas of the Madrid gallery [T. C. 3.1]. Koehler's "Polychrome Meisterwerke" [C. C. 12.1] has fine colored illustrations.
- For Italian accounts of Raphael see Vasari; Dolce's "Dialogo della pittura" [4064.12]; Armenino [4067.37]; Lomazzo [4072.3]; Borghini [4089.15]. For new biographical and critical sketches consult Index to the Gazette des beaux arts [7310a.51], and for volumes subsequent to the index, the manuscript index, at Bates Hall desk.

The Italian biographies in this Library are Rota's [4746.8], prefacing a collection of her poems; and Visconti's [2771.18], also with poems. Visconti, who was connected with the Colonna family by marriage, had the advantage of access to the Colonna archives, and his work is pronounced a careful compilation.  — La storia di Girolamo Savonarola e de' suoi tempi. Firenze, 1859, 61. 2 v. 12°. 3556.24
 The first considerable biography of Savonarola was by Perrens [479.51]. The author collected important material from the archives. It is thought by some critics to be deficient in arrangement, although Burckhardt says that it is "perhaps the most systematic and sober of all the many works upon the subject." Villari's work is, however, generally held to be the most complete biography. Among the early biographies to which Villari was indebted were:
 Barsanti's "Vita," Livorno, 1782, which is largely polemic in character, being a reply to attacks made in a work by Rastrelli, published at Geneva in 1781; Rudelbach's work in German, published at Hamburg in 1835, which is more a study of his writings than a biography, and is credited with having produced a favorable opinion of Savonarola in Germany; and Meier, whose work, published at Berlin, 1836, failed to examine carefully, it is said, important documents to which he had access. Padre Marchese, a Dominican monk of St.
 Mark, embodied in his "Storia di S. Marco," afterwards printed in his "Scritti vari" [476.6], all the documents which that convent contained regarding Savonarola, which,
 with his comments, made a valuable contribution to a knowledge of his personal character. A synopsis of this work is contained in "S. Marco illustrato" [472.50]. There are contemporary accounts by Burlamacchi [3556.18,19] and Pico della Mirandola, both of whom were personal friends of Savonarola. The "Archivio storico italiano" has printed important documents regarding Savonarola, for which see the "Indices" [5245.1]. George Eliot's "Romola" has Savonarola for the central figure. Symonds and Burckhardt both discuss his life and character.

Indexes to Periodical Literature.

In the Handbook for Readers, published by the Library in 1879, and in earlier editions of the same book, can be found a List of the principal Periodicals in the Library, which have general indexes. As these contain the titles of only a portion of the Indexes in the Library at the present time, it has been thought best to print a new and enlarged List.

Recently Published Periodicals.

A list in manuscript of articles selected from recent numbers of periodicals has been made, from month to month, for several years at this Library. This is only a partial list, however, the pressure of other work having prevented its regular continuation.

United States Congressional Documents.

The Index of these documents, begun under the superintendence of the late Professor Charles C. Jewett, and printed to the year 1863 in the two volumes of Catalogues of the Bates Hall Collection, has since that time been continued in manuscript on cards, with which have been embodied, in a greatly enlarged form, the contents of the printed lists referred to. The whole forms a collection of more than forty thousand titles, which are accessible to readers.

The collection of congressional documents in the Boston Public Library, based on the collection made by Peter Force and Edward Everett, and generously increased by the friends of the Library, is believed to be unrivalled.

Parliamentary Sessional Papers of Great Britain.

The Index of these papers, from 1807 to 1865, can be found in the two printed volumes of the Bates Hall Catalogue. Subsequent papers have been partially indexed by this Library; the unfinished portion can be found in the indexes published yearly by the British government. An index of the papers for 1870 to 1878-9 forms volume 83, part 1, of the documents for 1880. Indexes of subjects selected from the sessional papers from 1876 to 1879 are given in the Library Bulletins for July, 1878, January and April, 1880, and October, 1881, and it is intended to continue these indexes in the Bulletins whenever new documents are received.

Notes.

*In consequence of some misapprehension as to the action of the Trustees in respect to the list of books of alleged questionable character in the Lower Hall, laid before the Library Committee of the City Council last summer, and by them referred to the Trustees, and as an act of justice to the authors and publishers of these books, it may be stated that on the receipt of the list the Trustees, in accordance with their invariable practice in similar cases, directed the books in question to be called in for their examination; and, when it is completed, all books deemed by them unsuitable for circulation (should there be such) will be condemned, while such as are found to be unobjectionable will be returned to the shelves for circulation.

MATTAPAN DELIVERY. — A delivery station of the Boston Public Library has been opened at Mattapan, in the Post-Office building. Books will be given to readers from 3.30 P.M. to 7, from Tuesday to Saturday, inclusive.

EARLY AMERICAN PRINTS. — The Library has recently acquired, by purchase at Amsterdam, a considerable number of historical views, portraits, and caricatures, of the time of the Revolution, most of which, it is believed, are wholly unknown in this country.

BULLETINS WANTED. — The demand for recent numbers of the Bulletin has been so great that the supply is exhausted. The Library will gladly receive copies from those who have them to spare.

TOSTI ENGRAVINGS. — The framed engravings of this collection, which were removed temporarily from the walls of the Reading Room and Art Room, are being returned.

- This work was first published at Paris, in 1691, under the title "Premier établissement de la foy dans la Nouvelle France," and in 1692 with the title "Histoire des colonies françoises," etc. The first volume is largely taken up with an account of the Récollet missions in Canada, and the second contains the first printed narratives of La Salle's explorations, drawn up from journals of Membé and Douay. The journals relating to La Salle were printed in 1853 by Shea, in his "Discovery and exploration of the Mississippi" [2328.5]. Frontenac, it is asserted by Charlevoix, assisted in the compilation of this work, and Shea admits that Le Clercq did not write all of it. See Harris, "Notes pour servir à l'hist. [etc.] de la Nouv. France," p. 153 [6153.14], and Field's "Indian bibliography," p. 230 [6163.24], for the names of various persons to whom a share in the authorship has been ascribed.

Earlier Publications.

It has been the custom to print in the Bates Hall List in the Bulletin, with some exceptions, only the titles of books published within a few years. More attention than usual has been given within a year or two to the purchase from sale catalogues of interesting books, especially English books, long published. A special list, selected from the titles of such as have been received since January first, is here appended.

Ackermann, Rudolph, publ. A picturesque tour of the English lakes, with accounts of ancient and modern manners and customs, etc. Illus. with coloured views by T. H. Fielding and J. Walton. L., 1821. 4°. *4560.6

Three of the maps are dated 1762. They are all numbered Tome 2. The volume number has been erased from the title-page and index. The north-west coast line of North America is left blank, as being unknown. New Zealand, Australia, and Tasmania are connected as if they formed one body of land.

There is a notice of this translation in Cotton's "Rhemes and Doway. Oxford, 1855," p. 70 [2181.6], where it is stated that it is of "extreme rarity. The whole impression seems to have been bought up and made away with; for a copy is scarcely ever to be seen in the public market."

Ireland and the Land Question.

The past history and the social habits of the people of Ireland enter so largely into any consideration of the present agitation, that before giving the list of works lately added to the Public Library, it is proposed to mention a few of the specially necessary and important historical works, and also the most interesting travels and descriptions of manners and customs to be found in the Library. These references can make no pretension to completeness, but are only meant as a guide to a general but fair view of the whole question.

General Histories.

Mac-Geoghegan's [4510a.3; 4511.23] extends to 1699 and Mitchel's [4514.1] continues it from that point. W. C. Taylor's "History of the civil wars of Ireland. 2 v." [830.68; 810.52] covers the period from the Anglo-Norman invasion to the Union in 1801. Haverty's "History" [2476.12] extends to the Union, while Leland's "History of remarkable events in Ireland. 1781" [4518.8; 2474.1], still of value, stops at 1688. According to Amory, Moore is swayed too much by English prejudice in his "History, 4 v." [4518.7], which he contributed to Lardner's Cabinet encyclopædia, and which stops at 1646. Of a more popular character are Cusack's "Illustrated history"; Cusack's "Student's manual of Irish history" [4528.23]; Cusack's "Patriot's history" [980.10]; "The story of Ireland, for youth. Illus." [4519.7], T. d'A. McGee's "Popular history. 2 v." [1996.1]; and D. O'Connell's "Memoir on Ireland, native and Saxon" [No. 8 in Pph. v. 129], called by Daunt "an indictment of England." The "Annals of the Kingdom of Ireland, by the four masters, from the earliest period to 1616, ed. by J. O'Donovan, Dublin, 1851, 7 v." [4571.10]; "Calendar of the Carew manuscripts, 1515-1623, 6 v." [7043.55]; and "Calendar of the state papers relating to Ireland, of the reign of James I., 1603-25, 5 v." [7042.52], are among the most considerable collections of documents. See also under the publications of the Irish archaeological society. Besides these general histories, some works covering important periods or events deserve notice. T. C. Amory's "Transfer of Erin" [2511.12], extending to 1603, contains, in chapter sixteen, a good list of references on Ireland and its literature. Bonwick's "Who are the Irish?" [2419.61] comes down to Cromwell's time, where Prendergast's "Cromwellian settlement of Ireland" [4573.15] begins. The latter shows how the present land question is an outcome of that settlement. In connection with this point, the Irish archæological society published, in 1851, Sir Wm. Petty's contemporary "History of the Down survey, 1655-6" [2414.63]. See also Hill's "Historical account of the plantation in Ulster, 1608-1620" [2470a.50]. Two indispensable books are Froude's "English in Ireland in the eighteenth century" [4514.9; 986.9], which has been replied to by T. N. Burke in "Ireland's case stated" [4517.24], in his "English misrule in Ireland" [4517.21], and in "Thumping English lies" [4517.22]; and Lecky's admirable "Leaders of public opinion in Ireland" [4519.23]. In the second volume of his "History of England in the eighteenth century" [2422.59; 2458.51] Lecky devotes several chapters to Ireland. The Lower Hall Catalogue of history, etc., contains a note on Ireland.

Travels and studies of Irish life and character.

Foremost among works of travel stands Arthur Young's "Tour in Ireland, made 1776-79" [2464.7], which contains the first trustworthy account of the tenure of land in that country, although Fitzgibbon [4573.14] says his descriptions are delusive. Beaumont, in his "L'Irlande, sociale, politique, et religieuse. 2 v." [2476.2], ascribes the general misery which he witnessed in 1835, 37, to a "bad aristocracy." Travels subsequent to the famine of 1847 are Sir F. B. Head's "Fortnight in Ireland, 1852" [2476.1], which views the distress with a sympathetic yet strongly Protestant bias; John Forbes's "Memorandums in Ireland in 1852. 2 v." [4519.10]; and Osborne's "Gleanings in the west of Ireland" [2478.8], a philanthropical investigation during 1849-50 among the poor in Galway and Mayo, particularly in regard to the Union workhouses. Pueckler-Muskau's "Tour in England, Ireland and France, 1826-29" [6262.50; 2274.18]; Rodenberg's "The Island of the saints, 1861" [2476.24], a very lively description; and Thackeray's "Irish sketch-book" [4653.50.18; 2570a.34], are among the best of numerous travellers' accounts. E. O'Curry's "On the manners and customs of the ancient Irish. 3 v." [2413.52] is first in importance and in order of study of the Irish people, though perhaps Bonwick [2419.61] or Thébaud's "Irish race in the past and present" [993.5] cover this ground sufficiently for general purposes. Mrs. A. M. Hall's "Sketches of Irish character" [2561.8] and her "Ireland. 3 v." [4511.18; 4510a.9], from their sympathy with the subject, are very popular. On the other hand Trench's "Realities of Irish life" [4511.24], though popular, depicts the life of the peasantry as it appeared to the agent of a large estate, — that of the marquis of Lansdowne. Henry Giles, in his "Lecture and essays on Irish and other subjects" [6577.21], has several papers on the Irish character. Recent descriptions are Mrs. Houston's "Twenty years in the wild west; or, life in Connaught. 1879" [2479.24; 1667.25], relating a somewhat unfortunate experience; and Florence's "Memories of a month among the Mere Irish [in Donegal]. 1881" [2468.79]. The Lower Hall Fiction list points out under the heading Ireland some books, historical fiction and others, descriptive of social life. A late story based on the doings of the Land league is Harriet Jay's "The priest's blessing" [2468.82].

The Present Aspect.

The best and freshest views are of course to be found in the leading English and other periodicals, to which it would be impossible to refer in detail. On the whole, the "Fortnightly," the "Contemporary," and the "Nineteenth Century," afford, thus far, the ablest opinions on both sides. The manuscript index to current literature contains references, and is always accessible to readers in the Bates Hall. The Sessional papers of Great Britain necessarily contain much material. See in particular "Land owners in Ireland. Returns of owners of land of one acre and upwards." (In Accounts and papers, 1876, vol. 80.) An index to "Accounts and papers," from 1870-80, is in vol. 83, for 1880. The speeches of John Bright [4569.22; 4573.61; 2441.61], of Gladstone, of Disraeli [2311.50, vol. 2], and other Parliamentary leaders, show the sentiments of the several parties. Dod's Parliamentary register [4539a.31] gives the attitude of each member on this question. Below are given the titles of lately added books to the Public Library, dealing particularly with the land question, together with the titles of some not yet added, but likely to be.

DORCHESTER BRANCH LIBRARY. — A new catalogue of 229 pages, in double columns, has just been printed for the Dorchester Branch Library. This Library was opened to the public January 25, 1875, at which time there were about 3,700 volumes on the shelves. The number on the 1st of April, 1882, was 11,303 volumes. There are two delivery stations of this branch, one at the Lower Mills Village, and one, recently established, at Mattapan. Holders of cards at this Branch Library and the two delivery stations can take out one volume at a time from the Branch, and one volume from the Bates Hall of the Central Library. One volume, also, can be taken from the Lower Hall of the Central Library, if the applicant at the time has none from the Branch. These books, if in the Central Library at the time, will be delivered on the day after the application is made.

MAPS OF BOSTON. — The Librarian, having learned of the existence of a considerable number of maps of Boston and its vicinity, between the years 1705 and 1775, existing among the "King's Maps" in the British Museum, has made them the subject of correspondence with the Librarian of the Museum, with a view to having copies made for the Public Library. It is expected that these maps will throw light upon the growth of the city and the neighboring country.

THEODORE PARKER. — The Trustees have received, by gift from Miss Matilda Goddard, a complete set of the writings of Theodore Parker, consisting of published volumes, articles in reviews and periodicals, occasional sermons, addresses and reports, and newspaper cuttings, the same being designed to constitute a complete collection of all the printed writings of Mr. Parker.

NEW BUILDING. — On petition of the City Council the Legislature has passed a bill authorizing the City of Boston to take for the Public Library the necessary land belonging to private parties adjoining the 32,500 feet of land granted by the State of Massachusetts. The Trustees have been directed by the City Council to consider and report upon the suitability of the new English High and Latin School Building for the Public Library.

READING ROOM AND DELIVERY ROOM AT THE NORTH END. — The School Committee of Boston have placed a room in the basement of the Cushman school-house, on Parmenter street, at the disposal of the Trustees for a reading room and delivery station for the Public Library. It is the intention of the Trustees to place therein about one thousand volumes of books, with a collection of magazines, and to open it for the use of the public as soon as practicable.

CENTENNIAL MAP OF THE UNITED STATES. — The Hon. Leopold Morse has presented to the Public Library the Centennial map of the United States, which has been compiled, under the direction of the Committee on Public Lands, of the House of Representatives, by William L. Woods. This map, which measures ninety-three by one hundred and forty-two inches, and has been compiled from the official surveys of the General Land Office and other authentic sources, has been mounted and hung in the Bates Hall Study.

BOOKS FOR THE BLIND. — Samuel Gurney, of England, a nephew of Mrs. Fry, has presented to the Boston Public Library the Bible, in sixty-five quarto volumes, printed for the blind. This gift was made at the suggestion of Mr. Charles F. Dennet, of Brighton, England, who has sent to the library a copy of a selection from Longfellow's Poems, printed for the blind. These volumes are printed in embossed type, as designed by Dr. William Moon, of Brighton, England, and used by him in the printing of numerous books, a list of which, together with an account of his system, can be found in his "Light for the blind" [3596.69]. Recent English papers announce the death of Mr. Gurney, early in the month of April.

The Public Library has a considerable collection of books of this kind, printed mostly at the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts Asylum. The titles of these are to be found in the Card Catalogue under the heading Blind. (Books printed for the blind.)

CHARLES DARWIN. — A list of references in periodical literature to Darwin and Darwinism can be found in the Card Catalogue in the Bates Hall. These titles are taken from the forthcoming new edition of Poole's Index, and they are also printed in the Boston Daily Advertiser, April 22, 1882.

ROXBURY BRANCH. — A Portrait of Dr. Henry Bartlett, by Billings, has been presented to the Fellowes Athenæum by Miss Anna S. Everett. Dr. Bartlett was one of the original Trustees of the Fellowes Athenæum, and his library, at the death of his widow, came into the possession of the Athenæum.

- "The book which tells, with a due admixture of fact and fiction, the story of Spinoza's early life was the first by which Auerbach established his fame. The ablest part of the book, and that which makes it decidedly worth reading, is the picture it furnishes of Jewish manners and of the intellectual condition of Holland at that period. The character of Spinoza, too—the manner in which his doubts arose, his philosophy was formulated—is well sketched."—Athenæum.

Notes.

READING-ROOM AND DELIVERY STATION AT THE NORTH END. — In the last Bulletin it was stated that a Reading-Room and Delivery Station of the Library were to be opened in the Cushman School-house. On examination it has been found that the School Committee can place at the disposal of the Trustees more eligible rooms in the Hancock School-house, on Parmenter street, and these are now being fitted up for occupancy, which will take place about the first of August.

WENDELL PHILLIPS. — The Library has received, by gift from Mr. Wendell Phillips, several hundred volumes, with a collection of bound pamphlets, largely upon slavery. Several are of interest to the antiquarian, among them a very rare collection of the Annual laws of the Province of Massachusetts, preceding the Revision of 1699, Mather publications, and manuscript records of the American Anti-slavery Society, beginning with the year 1833. There is also a complete file of the National Anti-Slavery Standard, and other periodicals.

EGYPTOLOGY. — This Bulletin contains the titles of a large number of books on Egypt, Assyria, etc. These were purchased mostly from the library of M. Chabas, the distinguished French Egyptologist.

Benjamin Franklin.

In the Annual Report of the Public Library for the year 1869, the Superintendent says: "It has been thought that Franklin is to Boston of something like the same importance [as that of Shakespeare to England], and I have lost no opportunity of securing what I could, illustrative of the man and his works, and hope the collection may prove in the end of credit to the city of his birth." Since that time it has been one of the objects of the Library to secure anything of interest in this direction, in order to make as complete a collection as possible of Franklin literature.

The growth of the collection, however, had not been considerable, until two years ago, when Doctor Samuel A. Green presented to the Library his Franklin books, pamphlets, engravings, portraits, etc. To these have been added similar books from the general collection, and the whole have been placed in a room set apart for them. As stated in the Annual Report for 1880, "Dr. Green's donation has led to some important additions from other sources," among them some interesting gifts from William S. Appleton, Esquire. It is intended to publish, in several successive Bulletins, lists which may serve to call further attention to the collection. It is also believed that these lists will ultimately prove to be a fuller Franklin bibliography than any yet published; though they, of course, will be necessarily incomplete. The plan is to divide the subject into three portions. The first portion, given below, contains the titles of all books, or parts of books, at present known to the compilers, in the Boston Public Library, which were written by Franklin. Subjoined is a list of the titles of Franklin's writings, and of books containing writings of his, not in the Public Library at present, but desired to increase the collection. These titles have been taken from sale catalogues and other sources, and may not always be exact. Any information in respect to them or to additional titles will be gladly received.

The second portion, which will appear probably in the Bulletin for January, 1883, will contain Frankliniana, or books, pamphlets, broadsides, etc., relating to Franklin, at present in the Public Library. In this and the first portion a number of references is made to older serial publications, like the Gentleman's magazine, and the Philosophical transactions of the Royal Society, which contain articles by or about Franklin. It will be noticed, however, that, to no great extent, have references been made to articles in magazines, such as critical reviews and the like. This may yet be done; but at present such references are only occasional. This list of Frankliniana will be followed in the same Bulletin by the desiderata in this direction.

The third portion, to be printed probably in the Bulletin for April, 1883, will contain the titles of everything now in the Library, printed or published by Franklin himself, or in partnership with others; to be followed by a list of the publications of Franklin's press not in the Library. The list of these desiderata must necessarily be very imperfect. In the concluding portion will be found a list of the most important portraits and engravings of Franklin, with notices of manuscripts, autographs, and other miscellaneous matter.

There are at present 307 separate volumes in the special Franklin library; this numbering considers a bound volume of pamphlets as only one volume. Of these, 150 were received from Doctor Green; and two were purchased with the interest of a historical fund established by him. To these 307 volumes must be added 240 other volumes from the general library, whose titles are to be included in the lists. The total number of volumes thus far discovered in the Public Library, written by, printed by, or relating to, Benjamin Franklin is therefore 547. No account in this numbering is taken of the volumes of serial publications referred to.

The Trustees desire to be apprized of any known work upon or by Franklin not included in these lists, and to receive information which shall enable them to increase the collection.

PART I.

Works of Franklin in the Boston Public Library.

Works: consisting of his life written by himself, together with essays, chiefly in the manner of the Spectator. 2d edition. London: G. G. F. and F. Robinson. 1793. 2 v. Vignette portrait. Sm. 8°. K.24.2

Stevens speaks of a second edition without date, and a third edition. Dr. Price, the editor of this work, supplements Franklin's autobiography, which here extends to 1731, and which, at this time, was only translated from Buisson's French edition of 1791 (itself a translation from the original English), with Stuber's continuation, which first appeared in the Columbian Magazine [5156.3]. This work, after Price's death in 1791, was held back two years, in expectation that William Temple Franklin would soon issue the genuine autobiography completed to 1757.

The Poor Richard almanac was begun in 1733, by Franklin, and continued by him to 1750. It was printed and sold by B. Franklin and D. Hall to 1765, and then continued by Hall and Sellers. Of all these almanacs, that for 1753 is the most rare and valuable, for it contains a collection of the proverbs, maxims, etc., scattered throughout the previous numbers. This collection was afterward known as "The way to wealth."

A dissertation on liberty and necessity. London, printed in MDCCLXXV. 32 pp. 8°.

Probably impossible to find. Henry Stevens's collection contained a copy, and so did the Huth library. Sparks was unable to see one. Of this work Franklin says, "There were only a hundred copies printed of which I gave a few to friends and afterwards . . . burnt the rest, except one copy, . . . I was not nineteen years of age when it was written. In 1730 I wrote a piece on the other side of the question . . . This pamphlet was never printed." Charles Whittingham, about 1852, reprinted twenty-five copies of the "Dissertation" in fac-simile, for Henry Stevens.

A parable against persecution, in imitation or Scripture language. [1770?] 4°.

Franklin was fond of quoting this as a part of Genesis, and it was printed so as to be inserted at the end of that book, as chapter fifty-first. It was reprinted in Lord Kames's Sketches of the history of man. Afterward a similar imitation of Scripture was found in Jeremy Taylor's Liberty of prophesying. It was long supposed to be a translation from the dedication of a work translated from Hebrew into Latin by George Gentius, in 1651. It is now traced back to Saadi's Bostan. Sparks gives an account of it in volume 2, page 118. In the Gentleman's magazine, vol. 50, page 27, the Parable is reprinted. In vol. 57, page 514, vol. 60, page 609, vol. 61, pages 109, 313, 362, the origin is discussed. On page twenty-four, of "Information to those who would remove to America, London, 1794" [No. 4 in *6553.11], is the advertisement "Lately published, price one half-penny, or 3/ per 100. A parable against persecution. By Franklin."

Poor Richard, 1733. The Almanac for 1733. By Richard Saunders, Philom.

The Library has only the years 1755, 1758, 1763, of the original almanacs printed by Franklin, then by Franklin and Hall. According to Doggett, in his reprint [K.14.7], Franklin continued to work upon this almanac until 1758; according to Sabin, until 1761. He was the sole printer until 1748 or 1749; it was then printed by Franklin and Hall through 1765; and afterwards by Hall & Sellers until 179-. From 1733-1747, the Almanac had 24 pages, but in 1748 was enlarged to 36 pages. Sparks states that a complete set is of doubtful existence. The rarest of the series is the one for 1758. Franklin says: "These proverbs . . . I assembled and formed into a connected discourse, prefixed to the Almanac for 1758, as the harangue of a wise old man to the people attending an auction." This collection is what was afterwards known as the "Way to wealth," and in French as the "Science du bonhomme Richard," and by other titles. It was reprinted in England as a broadside to be hung up, and was three times translated into French before 1800.

Notes.

ANNUAL REPORT. — The thirtieth Annual Report of the Boston Public Library has recently been published, and can be had upon application. This contains, besides the usual reports of the Trustees, the Examining Committee, and the Librarian, a special report upon the Shakespearian Collection, by Mr. Horace Howard Furness, of Philadelphia.

SWEDENBORG. — The Public Library has received by gift from the American Swedenborg Printing and Publishing Society one hundred and eight volumes of the writings of Swedenborg. These, in nine sets, of twelve volumes each, have been placed on the shelves of the Central Library and of the various Branches.

THE SLAVERY QUESTION. — Mr. Wendell Phillips, in addition to his gift of books and pamphlets mentioned in the last Bulletin, has presented to the library over four thousand pamphlets, of which nearly eight hundred are on slavery. These two additions to the library number 1303 volumes and 4,682 pamphlets. By these, and by the 1,592 volumes and 2,117 pamphlets which have recently been added to the library on the death of the widow of Theodore Parker, the collection of books on the slavery question has been largely increased.

BOOKS FOR THE BLIND. — The Boston Public Library has recently received from Doctor William Moon, of Brighton, England, 351 volumes and 200 printed sheets of books for the blind. These, as well as the collection given early in the present year by Mr. Samuel Gurney, of England, are printed in embossed type, as designed by Doctor Moon, who has been able, by the aid of private subscriptions, to print portions of the Bible by this system in two hundred languages, and to publish many other works, a part of which are included in this gift to the Public Library. An account of Moon's system can be found in his book entitled, "Light for the Blind."

CHAUCER SOCIETY. — The Library has received, by gift from Mr. Charles F. Shimmie, the publications of the Chaucer Society, The Early English Text Society, and The New Shakspeare Society, in 158 volumes and parts.

NORTH END READING ROOM AND DELIVERY STATION. — The North End Reading Room and Delivery station of the Boston Public Library is now open in the Hancock school-house (entrance from Parmenter street), every week-day, from four to ten o'clock P. M.

The School Committee have placed at the disposition of the trustees two large rooms, which have been suitably fitted up for public use. There will be a library of about one thousand volumes, including books of reference, popular science, history, travels, etc., and a good list of periodicals, journals, with conveniences for reading.

It is hoped that the people in that section of the city will find inducements to spend their leisure evening hours in profitable and agreeable reading.

This is also a Delivery station, at which books can be drawn from the Central Library on the ordinary library cards.

When the public have become familiar with these rooms and their contents, it is expected that the plan will rapidly grow into favor.

WEST ROXBURY. — Friends of the Public Library living in Roxbury have recently contributed sixty-four dollars, which sum has been expended for books for that branch.

SOUTH BOSTON. — A citizen of South Boston has given one hundred dollars for the purchase of reference books for this branch of the Boston Public Library.

LUDWIG SALVATOR, ARCH-DUKE OF AUSTRIA AND TUSCANY. — The Arch-Duke Ludwig Salvator has given to this Library nine finely printed and illustrated volumes of travel, written and illustrated by the giver.

BULLETINS. — It is suggested to persons wishing to purchase copies of the Bulletin, that an application be made for them by February 1, May 1, August 1, and November 1 of each year. The supply of the July, 1882, number is already exhausted, as is that of several recent numbers. Friends of the Library having copies of the Bulletin that can be spared are invited to give them to the Library.

 A reprint (86 copies only) of David Laing's edition of this poem published in 1823. It includes a reprint of the Scots times for September 19, 1829, with an account of the Maitland club.
 Laing attributes the authorship of the Buke, which he thinks was written in the year 1483, to Sir Richard Holland, whose name is among those for whose apprehension as one of the followers of the exiled Earl of Douglas, a reward was offered by Parliament in 1482. The preface includes a communication by Sir Walter Scott, questioning the opinion that the poem was intended as a satire upon James II.

"Dr. Franklin, about the 15th or 16th of December, 1774, received these Proceedings of the Congress, with the Petition to the king, dated the 26th October previous. The times were growing very serious, and it was thought best to let Almon publish them immediately. . . . For a full account of the negotiations that immediately followed through Lady Howe and her brother, see Franklin's long letter to his son, dated 22 March, 1775, on shipboard bound for home. [Sparks, volume 5, page 2.] The original Petition, from which the above was printed, containing the signatures of 50 of the delegates, belongs now to Mr. Stevens' Franklin collection." — H. Stevens.

The original Petition of which Mr. Stevens speaks was signed in duplicate, both copies being therefore equally original. Franklin presented one to the King; and it now is in the Public record office. The other, which he kept, came into Mr. Stevens's collection.

In the number of the above-mentioned magazine for May, 1790, was begun Stuber's biography of Franklin, who had died in April of that year. This biography was continued in the numbers for June, July, September, October, and November, 1790, and for February, March, May and June, 1791. It was here discontinued, and never completed; this being due, no doubt, to the death of Stuber, in his twenty-third year, who had contributed, not the whole, but the greater part. The Autobiography had not been printed when this Life was begun.

A coarse attack occasioned by a political contest in Philadelphia, in 1764, when Franklin was defeated by a small vote, as representative in the Assembly. In "Substance of a council" a lampoon, probably wrongly attributed to Franklin, is found a possible allusion to this attack, as follows: "W . . . n [Wilson?], who was put upon writing that stupid epitaph on Mr. F . . . n."

Notes.

NEW DELIVERY STATIONS. — On January 1, 1883, a Delivery Station of the Public Library was opened at Neponset. Books can be taken at this station from the Dorchester Branch Library and the Central Library on Boylston street. The City Council passed an order, Dec. 21, 1882, requesting the Trustees of the Public Library to confer with the Committee on Public Buildings with reference to establishing a Reading Room and Delivery Station in the Bank building recently purchased by the city, on Washington street, Ward 24, and to report thereon to the City Council; and also to report on the expediency and cost of establishing a Reading Room and Delivery Station in some convenient location in Ward 19, near the Boston & Providence Railroad Station.

SOUTH END BRANCH LIBRARY. — A new catalogue of this Branch Library will be published February 1st, in 250 pages, in double columns. It will contain, under the names of authors and subjects, the titles of 10,332 volumes, the number in the Library January 15, 1883. Since the year 1877, at which time this Library was established, readers have had access to partial manuscript catalogues only, and it is thought that this new printed volume will stimulate the use of the collection.

NORTH END. — The Delivery Station and Reading Room in the Hancock school-house, on Parmenter street, which was opened to the public in the autumn, is in a prosperous condition, both with regard to the number of books drawn from the Central Library and the use of books of reference and periodicals by evening readers.

SEBASTIAN CABOT'S MAPPEMONDE. 1544. — The Public Library has obtained a full-size photographic fac-simile of this map, with its marginal legends, the original of which is in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris. At the suggestion of members of the Massachusetts Historical Society, the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, who visited Paris last summer, obtained permission of the French authorities to have a few copies photographed for libraries in the United States. There is a notice of this map in the "Memorial History of Boston," vol. 1, p. 43, with references to authorities on the subject.

The only full-size fac-simile heretofore available is the one in Jomard's Monuments de la Géographie, which was made before the days of photography, and which omitted the important tablets of inscriptions, which Jomard intended to publish later, but did not live to do. Several important historical questions turn upon them, and they have only been given in print in a fragmentary way, as in Lelewel's Géographie du moyen âge, or in chance citations. This fac-simile fails, of course, to give the coloring of the map, which can be seen in the fragment reproduced in Henri HARRISSE's Jean et Sébastien Cabot, Paris, 1882.

The "Books of Chilan Balam" and the "Chac Xulub Chen" are some of the few modern Maya books which have been preserved. They are written in the alphabet adopted by the early missionaries and conquerors. The former is a chronicle of Maya history, and afforded Señor Pio Perez materials for his computation of Maya time, regarding which see Am. antiq. soc. Proceedings, Oct., 1879, p. 71. The first book of the work was "undoubtedly composed not later than 1595." The second publication, written by Nakuk Pech in 1562, affords a history of the Spanish conquest of Yucatan. In the introduction the editor considers the origin of the Mayas, their language, literature, etc.

Santiago, 1851. Portrait. 8°. 4316.60

The body of this edition is identical with the author's Civilization i barbarie [4319a.20] except that its Introduction and last two chapters are replaced by the other matter mentioned in the above title. The French version, by A. Giraud [2d.50.16; 4369.76], although its title is made up from those of both editions, is a translation of this second edition, in which Mazade's article is replaced by an introduction. The English version, under the title Life in the Argentine Republic in the days of the tyrants [4419.2], is a translation of the third Spanish edition, which seems to have been a reprint of the second. Mazade's article is here replaced by a biographical sketch of Sarmiento (covering 125 pages), by Mrs. Horace Mann.

Index of Articles upon American Local History,

IN HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS IN THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It was primarily intended to index for this list only serial historical publications. In accordance with a later decision, many state and county histories, in which the town or county histories are separately treated, are included. Drake's Middlesex County, and Egle's History of Pennsylvania, are prominent examples of this class of publications. The local histories are there written by specialists.

The following publications have been indexed:—

Encyclopædias.

(Including only those of a general character.)

The following list embraces a selection from the encyclopædias in the Boston Public Library. Few but those of a recent date are given. It is to be remembered, however, that many of those published earlier contain much useful information, which is not obsolete.

Several of the encyclopædias here mentioned are further characterized by Mr. Justin Winsor, in an article in "The Literary world," June 1, 1878, entitled, "A choice of cyclopædias."

The titles of other encyclopædias may be found in the Card Catalogue, under the words Encyclopædias, and under the names of the various sciences, division Dictionaries.

An account of the earlier editions, beginning with the year 1795, with much information in regard to the encyclopædias of all countries, can be found in the book entitled "F. A. Brockhaus in Leipzig," which is an account of the publications of this firm. [Catalogue Room, 7.3.4.] This edition is illustrated. The eleventh edition is in the Catalogue Room, and at the Lower Hall Desk, and earlier editions are in the Library. Many encyclopædias have been based upon, or have imitated, the Conversations-Lexikon.

Of this there is the original Edinburgh edition and the American reprint. Illustrated. This encyclopædia has enjoyed great popularity.

Early Printing.

The book described below, and recently obtained, is thought to be the oldest complete specimen of printing in the Library.

Begins: In noie dñi nři iħu xři amē. Incipit lib' qui dicit supplemētū.

[Colophon (last four lines): —

Uēdelinus opus pressit spireus vtrunq3
Labe repurgatū (crede) volumē emis.
Impressum est Sixto sacro 2 antistite 4º.
Et veneto troni principis imperio.]

341 ff. Illuminated capitals and other colored letters. Manuscript notes. Double columns, 46 lines to a column. Sm. fº. Shelf-number 7620.8

Bartholomaeus de Sancto Concordio, surnamed Pisanus, a Dominican, who died about the middle of the fourteenth century, wrote a work known as the Summa Pisanella or Magistrutia, or sometimes as the Bartholina. The Supplementum Summat, etc., by Nicolaus de Auximo, de Ausmo, or Auximanus, is a considerable enlargement of the original work. In respect to these authors, see La Serna de Santander's Dict. bibliog. choisi du 15e siècle [2114.20], t. 2, p. 137, and Fossi's Catalog. cod. saec. xv impress. in Bibliotheca Magliabech. [2160.7.1], t. 1, p. 243. The colophon shows that this edition of the Supplementum was printed in Venice by Vindelinus de Spira. The year of imprint is conjectured from the last verse of the colophon, which puts it at the time when Nicolò Trono was Doge of Venice, that is, between 1471 and 1473.

"Première édition très rare, exécutée en lettres rondes sans chiffres, signatures et réclames." — La Serna de Santander.

Notes.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING. — On Thursday, April 12, the Common Council, concurring with the Aldermen, appropriated the sum of one hundred and eighty thousand dollars for the purchase of additional land, adjoining that granted by the State, and the sum of four hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the erection of a new library building thereon, fronting on Copley Square.

GIFTS AND BEQUESTS. — By the Will of the late Arthur Schofield, of New York, formerly of Boston, the Public Library will ultimately come into the possession of the sum of fifty thousand dollars.

The mathematical department of the Library has recently received large additions, purchased with the income of the Bowditch fund.

Ludwig Salvator, the Arch-Duke of Austria and Tuscany, has added to his recent gifts to the Library a copy of a finely illustrated book by himself, descriptive of Palma, the capital of the island of Majorca.

Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth has given to the Library a collection of Boston newspapers, mostly of an early date.

Mrs. Erastus B. Bigelow has given 138 volumes of works on industrial science.

The Library has received from Clarence Cook, of New York, a small collection of books relating to Goethe and his times.

DR. EDWARD J. FORSTER has presented to the Charlestown Branch Library a complete set of "Braithwaite's Retrospect of practical medicine and surgery," from 1840 to 1883, and an almost complete set of the "Boston medical and surgical journal."

EXAMINING COMMITTEE. — The Examining Committee of the Library, for the current year, consists of the following persons: —

William F. Apthorp, Esq., Doctor John G. Blake, Thomas W. Higginson, Esq., Augustus Lowell, Esq., J. Audley Maxwell, Esq., Thomas S. Perry, Esq., Richard Sullivan, Esq., Rev. Alexander S. Twombly.

JAPANESE ART. — The Public Library has received 106 volumes of sketch-books by Japanese artists. These works, which are described in the "Library Journal" for December, 1882, will prove interesting to art students in this country. In connection with these, the collection of Japanese designs, given to the Library some time ago (shelves 5020a, and 5024), can be studied with profit.

BRANCH LIBRARY CATALOGUES. — Attention is called to the reduction in the prices of several of the Branch Catalogues, as indicated on the second page of this Bulletin.

Benjamin Franklin.

PART IV.

Works printed by Franklin.

The titles given below are intended to include, so far as possible, all books, newspapers, pamphlets, and broadsides, printed or published by Franklin, alone or during his various partnerships; and also several works, with which his connection was in some way interesting. Some of these titles do not appear with desirable fulness, and some even are of doubtful authenticity or correctness; but, imperfect as the list is, it would have been practically impossible to have compiled it without the assistance afforded by the Lists of the issues of the press in Pennsylvania from 1685 to 1769, published by Mr. C. R. Hildeburn, in the Bulletins of the Library Company of Philadelphia for January, 1882, January, 1883, and July, 1883. Mr. Hildeburn is intending to publish a more extended bibliography of the Pennsylvania press, with fuller titles, etc., and, as he has been engaged upon this work for the past three years, this Library is largely indebted to him for his valuable supervision of this list before printing. Professor Seidensticker's Deutsch-amerikanische Bibliographie, in volumes 8-10 of Der Deutsche Pionier, has been of great aid in furnishing German titles. The list of Ante-Revolutionary publications by S. F. Haven, jr., appended to the second edition of Thomas's History of printing in America, Sabin's Dictionary of books relating to America, the Catalogue of the library of George Brinley, part II, and Thompson Westcott's American books and pamphlets advertised in the Pennsylvania Gazette, and printed in the Historical magazine, volume 4, have been of use in finding titles. The suggestions of Mr. Theodore F. Dwight, Librarian of the State Department at Washington, have also been serviceable. Whenever a book mentioned in Mr. Hildeburn's list has not been seen by that compiler, and when its title has not been verified in this list, a note has been made to the effect that he has "quoted" only the title. Corrections or amplifications of this list will be very welcome. The Public Library wishes to obtain, by purchase or gift, all the works here mentioned to which a shelf number is not attached.

An account of the apparition of the late lord Kilmarnock (who was beheaded for being concerned in the late rebellion) to Mr. Foster. Franklin, 1747.

There is a description of this book, one of the largest, if not the largest in number of pages, of the Franklin publications, in the Philadelphia Press, November 10, 1870. See also the Brinley catalogue, part 2, page 71, from which the above title is taken in a condensed form: "Es ist dies, trotz des Titels, wahrscheinlich kein in Philadelphia gedrucktes Buch." — Seidensticker. (Der Deutsche Pionier, vol. 10, page 66 [*5253.5].) See further his views on this book in the Pionier.

Sabin (vol. 14, no. 59896) erroneously ascribes a pamphlet with a title similar to this to Franklin's press.

Of this pamphlet Hildeburn says, "It was printed in England as one of the paper books in the chancery suit between Penn and Baltimore."

— Same. Franklin, 1736. F^o.

"Reprint, with additional matter." — Hildeburn.

In Acrelius's History of New Sweden, pages 330, 331 [437, 2.11], it is remarked, "as he [Olof Mylander] had gone into Mr. Franklin's printing-office to work for his bread and to pay his debts, so he had an opportunity to bring out in print a little work of Herrnhutish flavor, translated into Swedish, under the title of 'A short catechism,' etc. [in Swedish, "En Kort Catechismus för några Jesu Församlingar utaf den Reformerta Religionen uti Pennsylvanien. Först utgifven idet Tyska Späket af Johanne Bechtel]." From this it may perhaps be inferred that a Swedish translation was printed by Franklin.

Ben Saadi, Nathan, pseud. See Dodsley, R.

Berkeley, George. An abstract from Dr. Berkeley's Treatise on tar water, with some reflections thereon, adapted to diseases frequent in America. By a physician. Franklin, 1745. 12^o.

Franklin is given as the printer in Westcott's list; Hildeburn does not cite the name of the printer. Thomas gives as places of imprint, New York and Philadelphia; and Sabin mentions only a New York edition. It therefore seems doubtful if Franklin printed an edition of this work.

Cato's moral distichs Englished in couplets [by James Logan]. Franklin, 1735. 23, (1) pp. 4^o.

"The collection of moral precepts, in Latin verse, which have come down to us under the name of an unknown 'Dionysius Cato,' was a standard text-book for young scholars in the middle ages, and until the last century. If they can be regarded as classic, this tract may pass for the first translation of a classic which was both made and printed in the British colonies." — Brintley catalogue, part 2. See note in this list under Cicero.

"This book Franklin always considered the chef d'œuvre of his press. He brought many copies to England, and distributed them with evident satisfaction." — H. Stevens. In his preface Franklin speaks of "this first translation of a classic, in this western world." George Sandys translated Ovid's Metamorphoses [*939.15] in Virginia more than a century previous. See Dr. S. A. Green's remarks in the Historical magazine, volume 2, pages 112, 249. In the same volume, page 212, it is stated that a translation of Epictetus's Morals, printed 1729, and Cato's Moral distichs, printed in 1735, antedated the Cato Major.

Colden (?), Cadwallader. Essay on the iliac passion. Franklin, 1741.

Hildeburn quotes this title, but has not seen the book. Dr. David Ramsay, in his Review of medicine in the 18th century, page 35 [No. 17 in Medical pamphlets 139] says, "The earliest publication in America, on a medical subject, which has come in my way, was a treatise on the iliac passion, by the late Dr. Cadwallader." The authorship is ascribed with some hesitation to Colden, although on the authority of Hildeburn and Thomas.

The numbers of the Almanacs in this Library are mentioned in the following title:—

Guthrie, William, born 1620. Sermon at Fenwick, August, 1662. Franklin, 1743.

This title is taken from Seidensticker's list.

I do not understand the exact meaning of "Theils" in the imprint, but I think the statement "aus dem Englischen übersetzt und gedruckt zu Germantau bey C. Sower," is sufficiently clear to exclude it from a list of Franklin imprints. — Hildeburn.

The New-England courier. Boston, 1721–26. F°.

This, the fourth newspaper published in America, was started by Franklin's brother James, August 6, 1721, and continued by him until January 14, 1723, when an order of council forbade him to print his paper further without supervision; it was then decided that the paper should be nominally published by Benjamin Franklin, at that time an apprentice in James's shop. The first number with B. Franklin's imprint is dated February 11, 1723. There is a file in the Massachusetts Historical society, from November 20, 1721, to June 4, 1726. Franklin left Boston in October, 1723; yet the Courier was printed in his name probably until 1727.

Pennsylvania: a poem. By a student of the College of Philadelphia. Franklin and Hall, 1756. 11 pp. F^o.

Pennsylvania Gazette.

This Library is indebted to Mr. Hildeburn for the following title and note.

Numb. I. The Universal Instructor in all arts and sciences, and Pennsylvania Gazette. To be continued weekly, Decemb. 24, 1728. Philadelphia: Printed by Samuel Keimer, where subscriptions are taken in for this paper, at ten shillings a year, and advertisements inserted at three shillings each.

No. XL. The Pennsylvania Gazette. Containing the freshest advices foreign and domestick. From Thursday September 25, to Thursday October 2, 1729. Philadelphia: Printed by B. Franklin and H. Meredith, at the New Printing-office, near the Market, where adver- tisements are taken in and all persons may be supplied with this paper at ten shillings a year.

Franklin's account of the origin of this paper is that George Webb, a bound servant of his old employer, Keimer, having found means to purchase the remainder of his time from his master, offered his services to Franklin and Meredith. "We could not," says Franklin, "then employ him, but I foolishly let him know as a secret that I soon intended to begin a newspaper, and might have work for him . . . I told him . . . that the then only newspaper . . . was a paltry thing, wretchedly managed, no way entertaining, and yet was profitable. I therefore freely thought a good paper would scarcely fail of good encouragement. . . . Webb . . . told Keimer, who immediately . . . published proposals for one himself . . . To counteract them . . . I wrote several amusing pieces for Bradford's paper under the title of the Busy Body, which Brientnal continued some months . . . and Keimer's proposals, which we burlesqued and ridiculed, were disregarded. He began his paper, however, and before carrying it on three quarters of a year, with at most only ninety subscribers, he offered it to me for a trifle, and I, having been ready for some time to go on with it, took it in hand directly."

Keimer's paper was better printed than Bradford's Mercury, but in regard to news it was inferior. Extracts from Chambers' Dictionary, constituting the "Universal Instructor," occupied the first page and a half, and the rest was filled up from the English papers and magazines, with a scanty column of advertisements, and once in a while an original essay or poem. His connection ceased with No. 39, (Sept. 25, 1729). The next number, issued under Franklin's management, is somewhat better printed, but it is in the contents of the paper that the change of hands is most apparent. Essays on topics of interest take the place of Chambers' Dictionary, and the news is greater in quantity and more varied in character. Franklin's next improvement was in advance of the time. With number 44 the Gazette began to appear twice a week, on Mondays and Thursdays, and this attempt to furnish the news more frequently than had been the custom was sustained, with a relapse to a weekly issue from No. 56 to 66, until number 70, when the paper settled down to a weekly for the remaining hundred years of its existence, appearing on Thursdays, with occasional exceptions, during Franklin's ownership. The paper as started by Keimer contained four pages, small folio; this feature was at first preserved by Franklin, except during the bi-weekly issue, when it appeared on a half sheet, but from 1731 to 1736 it frequently filled no more than two pages.

Franklin got rid of Meredith in 1732, and changed the imprint (on May 11, 1732), to "Philadelphia: Printed by B. Franklin, at the New Printing-office," . . . and so continued it until October 6, 1736 (No. 460), when he was able to add "Post Master," immediately after his name. Up to this time the paper had not been very successful in obtaining subscribers or advertisements. But now with the Post Office withdrawn from his rival Bradford and fully at his command the Gazette became the leading paper of the colony in all respects. It continued a small folio of four pages, with occasional supplements and postscripts, until October 6, 1739 (No. 564), when it was changed to a quarto, and the date transferred to the left-hand corner of the top of the page, and a cut of the Proprietary Arms, which was retained until September 10, 1777 (No. 2533), was added. The size of the sheet was enlarged in February, 1741-2, and a third column added; it was again enlarged in 1750 to the size it ever after maintained.

In January, 1747-S. D. Hall's name was inserted in the imprint, which continued unchanged until October 31, 1765, when, to avoid any possible liability under the Stamp Act on the part of the publishers, it was issued until February 20, 1766, without an imprint, and during this time Franklin disposed of his interest in it to his partner, Hall.

About 1753 a half sheet began to be regularly added to accommodate the increased number of advertisements, and to it the imprint was transferred. This being but seldom preserved for binding, the paper is generally found at this period without the publishers' names. In 1757 the imprint was restored to its former position, and the additional space thenceforth required for advertisements and news, generally a whole sheet, was headed "Supplement" or "Postscript," some papers being accompanied by both.—Charles R. Hildeburn.

Index to the Notes about Books and Reading,

AND TO THE SPECIAL BOOK LISTS FOUND IN THE CATALOGUES OF THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY AND OTHER LIBRARIES, AND ALSO IN PERIODICALS.

The Bulletins of the Boston Public Library contain lists of books on special subjects, with descriptive notes. There are also notes on Spanish and Portuguese books in the Ticknor Catalogue, and on works in the departments of history, biography, travel, and historical fiction in the Lower Hall Catalogues.

These Bulletins and other catalogues can be found at the Central Library and the Branch Libraries. Of the Bulletins, vol. 1 contains No. 1-19; vol. 2, No. 20-35; vol. 3, No. 36-47; vol. 4, No. 48-59; vol. 5, No. 60-66.

All of these lists give the shelf-numbers of the books mentioned.

The Bulletins of the Harvard College Library contain notes on books [shelf-no. *6194.7]; the Providence Public Library publishes Monthly reference lists [*2144.60], and other libraries have done more or less of the same kind of work.

Cards have been prepared for all the subjects included in the notes of these various catalogues, and they have been inserted in the Card Catalogue of the Boston Public Library.

This Index has been prepared for publication in the Hand-Book of the Boston Public Library, a new edition of which is in press. The same type is used here.

The following are here indexed. The abbreviations designate the forms used in this list:—

TITLE-PAGE AND INDEX. — This number completes the Fifth Volume of the Bulletin. A title-page and index have been printed, which may be obtained on application to the Library.

ANNUAL REPORT. — The thirty-first Annual report of the Library has been published, and copies can be obtained on application at the Central Library and the Branches. In addition to the reports of the Trustees, the Examining Committee, and the Librarian, there are Special Reports on the Parker Library, by Mr. Thomas W. Higginson; on French Literature in the Boston Public Library, by Mr. Thomas S. Perry; and on the Musical department of the Library, by Mr. William F. Apthorp. Interesting statistics of the work of the Library for the past year are appended.

STATISTICS. — The following statistics, taken from the Annual Report of the Library, will be found interesting: Number of books taken by readers, for the year ending April 30, 1883, 1,045,902, — an increase of 5,349 over the previous year. Of these one volume in 13,074 was lost. Number of periodicals given to readers, during the same time, 518,226. For the preceding year the number was 492,090.

The net increase of the Library for the year was 17,835 volumes and 14,369 pamphlets. Of these, 5,340 volumes and 11,844 pamphlets were gifts. During the year, 16,025 new books, 4,217 pamphlets, and 4,084 serial volumes have been catalogued, and nearly 100,000 cards have been added to the catalogues of the Central Library and Branches.

GIFTS. — By the kindness of Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, the Public Library has received from the library of the late Dr. Jacob Bigelow 927 volumes, and 749 pamphlets, many of which are of considerable value. Mrs. R. Anne Nichols, of Roxbury, has given 77 volumes, chiefly folios and quartos, many of which are illustrated with portraits and engravings. This interesting and valuable collection has been placed in the same apartment which contains the library of works of a similar character given by Mrs. Nichols's sister, the late Miss Eliza M. Thayer. From the family of the late Deacon Moses Grant several hundred volumes have been received, and many pamphlets, comprising copies of several desirable books printed in Boston; and from Mrs. S. A. Clark a collection of more than a thousand portraits and engravings, gathered by her late husband, Mr. Elijah P. Clark, to illustrate Carlyle's History of the French Revolution.

BRANCH LIBRARY CATALOGUES. — Attention is called to the reduction in prices of several of the Branch Catalogues, as indicated on the second page of this Bulletin.
